COURSE DESCRIPTION

The Honors English 9 course focuses on developing the students' critical and analytical language skills. The units of study involve a thematic focus while examining various genres and essay writing. Thematic units include: Identity, Conformity, Morality, and Journey.

Students begin with a writing unit and throughout the year integrate skills in reading, writing, speaking/listening, critical thinking, media, persuasion, research, and problem solving. Writing instruction focuses on composing and written expression through central idea and position, organization and unity, evidence and details, conclusion, flow, and word choice. Grammar, usage, mechanics, and vocabulary are integrated into each unit throughout the school year. Student's writing and performance-based assessments are stored throughout the year, and during the final unit, students select pieces for their writing portfolio. The contents of the portfolio illustrate how each student has grown and improved as a writer throughout the year.

As students study literature, they analyze elements of narration with a more critical lens and approach the impacts and interactions of: plot, setting, characterization, conflict, theme, and point of view. While studying epic, drama, and novels, students examine literary skills and complex rhetorical techniques such as subplots, multiple themes, character development, and multiple settings. Through examination of a broad range of nonfiction material, the students learn about a writer's purpose and subjectivity or objectivity in any given work, and analyze how texts compare and contrast.

Honors extensions are provided throughout the school year. Deeper thinking is encouraged through examination of higher level texts and deeper connections. Extension options also include: adding research components, presenting or defending thoughts, revising writing to improve sentences/structure and deepen vocabulary, examining authors and individuals and what influences them, utilizing quoted material, developing literary critiques and creating unique media messages.
